BIG TILES AND BOLD COLORS

Talking trends with
I Hate My Bath's
Jeff Devlin

- People are definitely starting
- to get colorful in their houses
- – and in their bathrooms! I've
- seen a lot of teal and even
- pastel colors. People are also
- experimenting with texture too,
- like reclaimed wood on walls
- and more detailed wainscoting.

Although most people opt for a nice larger shower, there are still those that love a relaxing dip in their bathtub. Many homeowners love a freestanding tub – kind of like the old claw foot tubs but with a modern spin.

design

Floating vanities give the illusion of more space in the bath and they fit nicely in almost any design. They're easy to install too - and they're nice for people who want to try something different.

When it comes to tile, bigger is better: the trend is to use large format tile for both the floors and the walls. Great news! More than ever, big box stores are carrying a great selection of designer-type products, including terrific tile.

Homeowners are starting to treat themselves with better and higher end fixtures – and why not? You've got to start the day off right! You are starting to see that spa feel in more homes with beautiful taps, rain shower heads and body jets.
